Star Betting: — 5-4 Kicking King, 4 Ollie Magern, 7 Beef Or Salmon, 8 Keen Leader, 8 Kingscliff, 20 Take The Stand, 25 Royal Auclair.

STARFORM KICKING KING can pick up the winning thread having suffered a minor hiccup when beaten 31 by War of Attrition (Punchestown 2m6f lsd chvgd) last month. That outing was most definitely needed as he's better judged on his impressive 51 Chatterham Gold Cup victory (3m2110yds gdt chvgd) in March in which Take The Stand finished runner-up. Royal Auclair a further 81 away in 4th, Celestial Gold 7th and Beef Or Salmon pulled up. The selection was equally convincing when toying with his rivals and heading up by 31 from Rule Supreme (Punchestown 3m1f gdt chvgd) the following month. A leading novice last term, Ollie Magern cracked a cannon bone in February but returned better than ever to beat Kingscliff by 141 in the Charlie Hall (Wetherby 3m1f gdt chvgd) three weeks ago in which Take The Stand finished 11st away in 3rd and Keen Leader fell early on. He won more easily than the margin would suggest and there seems no reason why he should not confirm the form on 5lb better terms with all three of those rivals. Beef Or Salmon was never travelling in the Chatterham Gold Cup but he's a top performer on his day as he showed when beating Kicking King by 31 (Down Royal 3m gdt chvgd) just over a year ago. The selection has improved a good deal since then though.

PLUMPTON

JIM OLD ended a 210-day spell in the wilderness in the best possible way at Windsor yesterday, writes TONY LEWIS.

The Wroughton trainer introduced a really smart newcomer in the Close Property Finance Novices Hurdle in the shape of seven-length winner Super Lord.

The dual point-to-point winner certainly impressed jockey Wayne Hutchinson, who said: "He's got gears to burn for a horse that stays three miles."

Old, who likes to keep his feet firm on the floor, said: "We'll have to see about his next race. He could go to Cheltenham next month, but we'll see how he is."

Old is also hopeful that his one-time Triumph Hurdle hope Quarrymount will finally show his true ability in a handicap at Aintree tomorrow.

Quarrymount runs off a lenient-looking mark of 98.

GREYHOUND SPECIAL

ALL roads lead to East London tonight as the sport's star performers gear-up for the annual Racing Post Festival.

With finals night one of the must see televised events of the year in the canine calendar, we have the opportunity of assessing the talent on offer this evening and in the process backing a few winners to keep up our decent run of form.

Talented Sheffield handler Ron Hough sends SANDROCK DREAM south to compete in the VC Bet Racing Post Marathon Heats.

When last racing over the gruelling 835 metre course Sandro Rock Dream was denied a clear run at a vital stage of the contest and I am certain that this very talented young bitch has bundles of improvement to come.

With Astute Star guaranteed to start as the short priced jolly tonight, this is a race for the each way thieves to pinch a few quid and for those of you who like a reverse forecast punt.

In the 921 Wimbledon trainer Seamus Cahill has his early paced veteran SENAHEL BERT in good order.

Expect the trap four runner to skip clear round the first bend and to keep the late charge of Express Hanco at Bay. Cahill should also hit the mark with WELL PRESENTED who dons the red vest in 8.53. Ignore the youngster's last outing on Tuesday night as he met all kinds of other. Well Presented had won his previous two outings including a smart 29.11 success over course and distance.

Perfectly drawn next to the rails, I make this genuine railer nap material to resume winning ways tonight.

In the second of the three heats of the Racing Post Festival Veterans Derby due off at 8.39, I give a great shout to the six box, CENTOUR PARA. The long journey from Northumberland looks set to pay big dividends for Jimmy Fenwick's charge. A winner of a decent open at Belle Vue last week, this experienced campaigner has taken the scalps of top hounds.

My only slight negative is that Centour Para has never won under Walthamstow's tricky circuit, but this fact is offset by the versatility of the striped jacketed runner who has been tri-

STARBETS NO.1 FOR BETTING

GREAT SHAPE: Ollie Magern can win again

Ollie can steal the King's crown

GOLD Cup hero Kicking King puts his reputation on the line in this afternoon's £150,000 Betfair Lancashire Chase at Haydock.

And there's a £1million bonus up for grabs for the horse that wins this race, the King George VI Chase at Sandown and the Cheltenham Gold Cup.

Trainer Tom Taaffe has assured us his stable star will strip fitter following his defeat by War of Attrition at Punchestown last month and that his final piece of serious work last Friday was "very good".

Tests

There's no doubting he's the one they all have to beat but at odds-on he is one that I have to take on and I believe there are contenders in this race for the King's Cheltenham crown.

Beef Or Salmon missed the Leopardstown November Handicap after a trickle of blood appeared in his nostrils, but tests have shown there isn't a problem and he has worked well since then.

Jonjo O'Neill's yard is in full swing after a disappointing time of it last season. Keen Leader is sure to have his supporters and could figure if he puts in an error-free round.

However, I believe the key to this race is the Charlie Hall Chase at Wetherby three weeks ago when Ollie Magern jumped for fun from fence to fence and still had enough in reserve to hold off Kingscliff's challenge.

Trainer Nigel Twiston-Davies made no secret of the high opinion he has for Ollie and was talking in Gold Cup terms after that victory.

And he says Ollie Magern has come on for that run and will be in even better shape. He is a 7-2 chance with VC Bet and I will not be deserting him today.

The Casino36 Classic Nerak Hurdle looks like being a cracker with the in-form Admiral taking on last season's Triumph Hurdle first and second in Penzance and Faasel.

Alan King's Penzance never stopped improving last term and with the stable in good form I confidently expect him to maintain his unbeaten run despite being a 1lb worse off with Faasel for a head margin of victory at Cheltenham.

★ Many readers may be unfamiliar with Asian Handicap betting, but I believe that will soon change.

Asian Handicaps are the best value way of betting on football as they remove the draw odds and give either side a goal or goals start. There is a tutorial on my website (vcbet.co.uk) which guides you through Asian Handicaps – they really are simple to understand.

As a bonus this week I'll be offering one of my new Asian Handicap customers a £5,000 free bet. Visit the site, click on the link from the homepage and you have a mythical bank of £5,000 to bet on this weekend's Asian Handicaps in the Premiership – the person who wins the most from their original £5,000 wins that amount in real cash for a bet next week!

WING AND A PRAYER

Take Cohen to breach All Blacks' line

ENGLAND'S victories over Argentina and Australia and Our Vic's impressive win in the Paddy Power Gold Cup gave us all plenty to shout about last weekend.

And we have another weekend of top sporting action to look forward to and bet on!

In rugby union, England have one hell of a job on their hands to contain an awesome New Zealand team and the 1-10 on offer for a New Zealand win says it all.

Special

Whilst I expect the All Blacks to win, I think England's Twickenham advantage and a superb home effort could prevent this Kiwi team from beating England by too much.

So I'd suggest backing the All Blacks to win between 11 to 15 points at 6-1. If I'm right, the 15-point handicap in England's favour could also come into play at 10-11.

Among the first try scorers options, it's hard to look beyond New Zealand's flying wingers Doug Howlett and Stiveni Sivivatu. Anyone that can keep the likes of Rico Gear and Joe Rokocoko out of the team must be special. They're both 15-2 for first try but I just favour Doug Howlett.

Beyond the wingers, Richie McCaw could be value at 20-1. The back row man is arguably the best player in the world currently and England could have their hands full with him alone.

For England I'd look to Ben Cohen out on the wing.

The Northampton wide boy scored on his return to the England team last week and is 16-1 to score the first try of this match or, as is more likely, 11-2 to score England's first try.

Over in Pakistan, things have not gone quite to plan for the England cricket team, having gone one down earlier in the week. It wasn't a huge surprise for punters with Pakistan seeing a flood of bets after England's loss to Pakistan A during their build-up.

The second Test could be a time for Michael Vaughan, if he returns as is being suggested, to consolidate his team before a final push in the last match. I'd be looking for the draw at 6-5.

Capable

The batsmen have to show they can spend time in the middle to convince they are capable of winning but with Strauss likely to be missing from the final Test it looks tough for England to come back from here. At this stage the 3-1 on offer for a 1-0 Pakistan series win looks a solid bet. For top batsman in the match try Marcus Trescothick at 3-1.

STAN THE MAN FOR CELTS

TWO of world football's biggest rivalries clash today – Real Madrid face Barcelona and Celtic take on Rangers.

The Old Firm clash will surely go to Celtic at 5-6. It's been a long time since Rangers have been priced at 10-3 in the SPL but it's for a good reason as they are a shadow of their former selves right now and a trip to Celtic is the last thing boss Alex McLeish needs.

With six goals to his name, Stilian Petrov (left) has scored more goals than any Rangers player so far this season – and that's from midfield. The Bulgarian is a tempting 8-1 to score the first.

In Spain, I think Real could click for a home win against Barcelona with their Brazilians leading the way. Its 13-10 for a Real win.

The match also throws up the battle of 'The Two Ronnies', Madrid's Ronaldo and Barcelona's Ronaldinho. It's going to be a fascinating tussle and whilst you can get 5-6 on either player to find the net first, Ronaldo is 15-8 to score before his countryman.

THE Premiership returns today and we can't wait! First up are Wigan who are looking to continue their incredible run at home to Arsenal, who will appeal at a generous-looking 4-5. Chelsea are at home to a Newcastle side which has Michael Owen firing on all cylinders and will interest speculative backers at 8-1. Charlton attempt to beat Man United for the first time in the Premiership and don't come into the game in the best of form, so 4-5 United look the selection.

Value

At 2-5, Liverpool at home to Portsmouth will be another for the accumulators. We're hoping at least one of the good things get beaten as the Arsenal, Man Utd, Liverpool and Chelsea multiples will be popular.

There's another Old Firm derby in Scotland with Alex McLeish desperate to win after being given a month to stop the rot. But Celtic are unbeaten since August and are value at 4-5.

New Hearts boss Graham Rix takes charge of his first game at Aberdeen tomorrow, and we're looking for them to fall away, having over £500k liabilities on them for the SPL title.

SUCCESS AT THE DOUBLE

THERE were no excuses for StarBets punters not to have lumped on Old Vic in last Saturday's Paddy Power Goal Cup at Cheltenham

Martin Pipe's horse, which obliged at tasty odds of 9-2, was tipped by both StarBets columnists Paddy Power and Victor Chandler.

And in-form dog man Geoffrey Thomas built on his previous week's winning Yankee with two more winners, both at 5-4, to add to the big profits his followers are enjoying.

INSIDE FOOTBALL

AT the start of the season Paul Jewell said he hoped Wigan didn't have to go to Highbury on the last day needing a point – for Europe!

He was joking, of course, but it doesn't sound so daft right now.

A home win over Arsenal in the lunch-time kick-off today would see them move within three points of the Premiership leaders Chelsea.

Even now they say survival is the main aim (they're as big as 20-1 with Bet Direct to be relegated), but try telling that to the 24,900 crowd filling the JJB today – the first time for a football match.

Speedy

The wonder of Wigan is their defensive record. Incredibly it's the best in the division with just five goals conceded.

Frenchman Pascal Chimbona has already become a cult figure while Leighton Baines has shown himself to be a potential England full back.

Defenders Stephane Henchoz and Arjan De Zeeuw aren't quick and on the face of it will struggle against Arsenal's speedy strikers. But they will sit deep enough to make sure they're not caught out by pace.

Make no mistake, this is a bigger game for the visitors than Wigan. Arsene Wenger says he's convinced his side won't lose again this season – and if they are to have a chance of the title, that will have to be the case.

Wigan have proved everyone wrong time and again this season and I can see them finishing in the top half of the Premiership. But I have a feeling this may not be their day, and I'm not surprised Paddy Power make them as big as 4-1 to win.

Arsenal are having their worst away start for 50 years. Way back in 1955 they finally notched their first away win on November 19 – and history may repeat itself today.

Go for Thierry Henry to shake off his fatigue in a 1-0 away win. He's as big as 7-2 to score the first goal with Totalbet, while a Henry goal and 1-0 scorecast is an 18-1 chance with VC Bet.

Charlton have never beaten Man United in the Premiership and it's hard to see them halting that run today at the Valley.

United must be on a high after their battling win over Chelsea.

It wasn't vintage United against the Blues, but they battled superbly in a match where the result was everything.

When Wayne Rooney sparks, so do United. Every time he has scored for United, they have won and he's 9-2 with Blue Square to get the game's first goal.

Value

Charlton will try and make this like a Cup tie and pressure United early on – but they have only scored four home goals this season and unless Danny Murphy can notch his usual goal against United – a 10-3 chance with Paddy Power – I don't see them getting their second home win of the season.

The 4-5 on a Man Utd win offered by both Blue Square and Ladbrokes looks good value and 7-1 on Man Utd winning 2-0 with Bet Direct is also worth noting.

IG MARRIED TO FOOTBALLER ASHLEY COLE

I'm the luckiest girl in the world

■ by LINDA HARRISON
EVERY girl wants to be her - and every bloke wants to be with her.

At 24, Girls Aloud star Cheryl Tweedy seems to have it all.

Not only is she rich, beautiful and in one of the country's top girl bands, but she's about to get hitched to the man of her dreams.

But it wasn't always plain sailing for the gorgeous Georgie and her footballer fiancé, Ashley Cole, 24.

In fact, it took a little supernatural intervention to get the lovebirds together.

"Ashley asked for my number a good few times, but I wasn't interested," she giggles. "I so didn't want a footballer!"

"But the more I saw him in the papers, the more I just couldn't stop thinking about him."

"Then I went to see a psychic in Newcastle and he said: 'You've been looking at this guy in a magazine'. And I had! He said: 'You need to pursue this'.

"So he gave me the push to give Ashley my number." Once the two had been given a helping hand, there was no stopping them.

"We started seeing each other and we really hit it off," she adds.

So when did Cheryl know it was the real thing?

"After about three months. One night, we were just having a laugh. I was doing this stupid dance or whatever and he was laughing at me."

"Then he just said it before his brain caught up. 'I fing love you', he said, and his face suddenly dropped."

So did Cheryl respond?

"Er... no! I just started laughing. I think I was nervous that this was happening and it was spiralling out of control."

"After he'd said it, he tried to justify it to himself, going: 'But I didn't mean it like that'. So I thought: 'Right, I'm not going to say it back just yet.'"

"If he'd said it in a nice way, it might have been different."

Less than a year later, the Arsenal and England star went down on one knee and popped the question. Cheryl didn't think twice. "I just screamed 'Yes!'"

Now the couple are planning what could turn into the wedding of the year.

Lovely Cheryl's even been taking tips off Victoria Beckham, 31, about her dress. "I love Victoria. I really do. I've met her a couple of times and she's just so witty and down to earth."

It appears Posh's favourite designer may even be dressing Cheryl on her big day.

"I've heard that Roberto Cavalli has a really nice range of dresses," says Cheryl. "I need to start thinking about this soon. I haven't even worked out my bridesmaids yet."

"I know my dress doesn't have to be white. I like the idea of creams, mustards, golds and beiges."

It's all a far cry from when the future Mrs Cole was growing up.

Back then, she couldn't think of anything worse than the idea of becoming someone's wife.

"When I was a little girl, I didn't want to get married," she says. "I was never interested in weddings. But the minute Ashley asked me, I knew it was right. Since then, I feel so much more settled. I just feel the luckiest girl alive."

■ The full interview appears in the latest issue of NEW WOMAN magazine, out now.
